Artist Biography

Wendelin Ray is a photographer living and working in Media, Pa. Born in Vancouver, she grew up in a family of artists and took to the creative process at a young age while growing up in Swarthmore, Pa. She has studied sculpture, ceramics, drawing, painting and photography at various schools including Syracuse University, University of the Arts and Moore College of Art and Design in Philadelphia, and Community Arts Center of Wallingford, Pa., where she has won several awards for her work. Although Wendelin continues to pursue many interests and talents, photography remains an enduring passion.

She began her work as a fine-art photographer in the late 90's, specializing in black-and-white film photography. For the past seven years, she has continued her work using digital media, printing in color as well as black and white, while exhibiting widely. She remains passionate about fine-art photography, with a strong focus towards urban architecture and street scenes, seascapes and beach culture, as well as portraits of humans and animals.
